

LOUISVILLE DAILY UNION PRESS.

VOL. 2

CALVERT, CIVILL & CO.,
PUBLISHERS.
OFFICE—PRESS BUILDING,
NO. 109,
Jefferson Street.

DAILY UNION PRESS.

TERMS:

Mail subscribers, in advance, per year, $9 00
" " " 6 months 5 00
" " " 3 00
" " " 1 00
By the week—payable to the Carrier—20c

WEEKLY UNION PRESS.

One copy for one year, (52 issues) $2 00
Ten copies, " " 12 " 20
Twenty, " " 24 " 40
We will send ONE EXTRA COPY with every CLUB OF TENS, TWO EXTRA COPIES with a CLUB OF TWENTY.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

ALL LETTERS relating to the Subscription, Advertisements, or other business with the paper, should be addressed to "The Union Press, No. 109 Jefferson street, Louisville, Ky."

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Communications to the paper should be addressed to "The Editor of the Union Press, Louisville, Ky." Care should be taken to write on only one side of the paper used.

No notice will be taken of anonymous communications, which are deemed to be from persons who do not care to have their names known. All correspondence, however, is carefully examined by the same and address of the writer—not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of his good faith.

We cannot undertake to return rejected communications.

Advertisements in Weekly Union Press.

Ten lines or less, 50 cents. Larger advertisements in proportion.

Advertisements in Daily Press.

Five lines (forty words) or less, in column of "Wants," "For Sale," "For Rent," "Boarding," "Lost," "Found," &c., 25 cents each insertion.

The Guerrilla Operations of One-Armed Berry.

(Correspondence of the Union Press.)

UNION STAR, KY., Nov. 8, 1865.

If you will indulge me for a few moments I shall tell you something about the guerrillas I observed in your paper of Monday, Nov. 6, 1865, in relation to the squad of guerrillas which robbed Stephensport a d Union Star. Seven well mounted men passed through Union Star, and toward Stephensport, on Saturday evening, and staying over night, that they were sporting men on their way to Cloverport where the races were to be run on the following Saturday. On Thursday morning, some hour or more before the packet arrived at Stephensport, six of the seven that passed down returned and waited for the arrival of the packet, and then the heart to undertake to rob it. After the packet left they robbed Messrs. Hall and Bennett, and also Mr. Huckleby, and then left for Union Star, which place they reached a little after daylight. The people were not yet up, and the robbers were not seen. Everybody was taken by surprise, and in two minutes time they had the citizens either under guard or scared out of town, with one or two exceptions. Miss Bell Cox was up at the time they first came into town, and after satisfying herself as to their character, ran to Capt. Hammer's room, and woke him up, telling him to get away or they would kill him.

He soon got up and tried to get out on the front porch, where he could have a full view of the thieves, but the women would not let him out, lest the guerrillas would shoot him. He then went up stairs, and went on one leg then up stairs and had not a long time to wait until he got a chance to try his often tried Henry rifle. One of the villains ventured down the street a little farther than the rest of the gang, and shot him, but he received a ball from Capt. Hammer's rifle. It did not fail, but got back to his horse and mounted him, and the balance being out of range so Capt. Hammer could not get an other shot without endangering the citizens who were there. He raised his rifle and that party who presented it so far from refunding the money, so managed as to obtain an additional loan. This transaction was on the responsibility of the bank office alone, though making use of the funds of the bank. Having placed himself in a position to do so, he raised his rifle again and it was now worth at least $500 and likely to be worth as much at this time next year. Almost any able-bodied man can raise and fatten ten bats of cotton on our rich alluvial soils. We know one man and his wife and live on $1000 a month, and get out of the city, who make $8,000 a month, and live on a large farm, and get out of the city, who are now worth at least $500 and likely to be worth as much at this time next year. Thousands of all ages can now judge what the cause of their declining health, losing their vigor, and failing to respond to the calls of nature, and manfully effects produced by early habits of youth, viz. Weakness of the Heart, Impaired Function of the Muscular Power, Impairment of the Heart, Disease, Nervous Irritability, Impairment of the Digestive Functions, &c.

MENTAL.—The fearful effects of the mind are much to be regretted. Loss of memory, confusion of ideas, forgetfulness, dullness, timidity, etc., etc.

RUSTIC.—Drawing out of the body, and at twelve o'clock he was still alive, but there was very little hope of his recovery.

It appeared that Mrs. Greene was sitting by the center table, reading a "Knight of the Day," when her husband came up behind her, and having her by the arm, led her into another room, and there she ran up stairs, locked her door, lay down and deliberately made the attempt at her own life. Mrs. Greene ran across the parlors, opened the front blinds and window, and cried murder, as we have previously stated. Blood on the leaves of the trees, which had been cut off, were at about eleven o'clock, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by a side window, when a terrible sight presented itself. Mr. Greene was discovered lying on a chair, an open razor in his right hand, and still alive, but scarcely any longer breathing. The freedmen who soon became aware of the occurrence, and who were waiting for the coroner, Officer Nott summoned a jury, consisting of John B. Eldridge, A. Clark, Collins Stone, Gleat, Allen, S. A. Hubbard, and S. Mathew, who were about attending to their duties when it was stated that the door of Mr. Greene's room was locked, and key was inside. The room was entered by

THE DAILY PRESS

OFFICE--PRESS BUILDING

NO. 109

JEFFERSON STREET,

LOUISVILLE:

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1865.

News of the Day.

The election in Nevada on Tuesday last resulted favorably to the Republicans. Ashley was elected to Congress by 1000 majority.

A difficulty occurred yesterday in Alexandria, Va., between Dr. Maddox and Major General Devens, Marshal of that city, resulting in the latter being fatally shot.

War has been declared between Spain and Chili. The Admiral in command of the Spanish fleet had proclaimed a blockade of Chilean ports from the 24th ult.

A dispatch from Galveston, Texas, announces the death of William Johnson, brother of the President. He was collector of that port.

The chief is disappearing from among the passengers of the Atlanta. There have been twenty deaths altogether, confined to the steerage passengers of the vessel.

Mr. Mallory, late Confederate States Secretary of the Navy, is still in prison at Fort Lafayette, in New York Harbor. It is said that his health is much impaired by his confinement.

A mass meeting is to be held to-night in Memphis, to indorse the Administration of President Davis' staff, and Colonel E. N. Harrison, the latter's private Secretary, etc., are to be present at Fort Delaware. Col. Johnson, who was also of the staff, is at liberty on parole.

Brigham Young threatens war upon the United States if any interference with the peculiar institution of Utah is attempted. He says polygamy is their religion, and he and his followers will defend it if necessary to the core of arms.

The independent Belgians assert that France will soon withdraw their troops from Mexico, and that the speech of the Emperor on the opening of the Chambers will be of so pacific a character as to remove all grounds for objection on the part of the United States.

Hon. Jacob Collamer, U. S. Senator from Vermont, died at Washington yesterday. He was a representative in Congress from 1843 to 1849; when he became a member of President Taylor's Cabinet. He was elected U. S. Senator in 1861. He was over 70 years of age.

During the war the Legislature of Vermont created a standing militia, and a draft to keep the ranks full. Some $300,000 have been expended in organizing and equipping the force, and now petitions are pouring in from all quarters to abolish the militia altogether.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has given a decision to the effect that the manufacture of opium, morphine, and articles enumerated in section ninety-six of the Revenue Law, are exempt from taxation on their sales. They will henceforth only have to take out a manufacturer's license, which will cover all their liability as dealers.

Extensive discoveries of black sulphur copper have recently been made near the summit of South Mountain, Caveatown District, Washington county, Maryland. The ore occurs in quartz, and has the color and luster of graphite. Specimens forwarded to the Agricultural Department have been analyzed by Professor Erni, and the analysis shows it is almost pure copper glances or sulphur of copper.

EXECUTION OF WIRZ.

The telegraph brings us the expected intelligence of the hanging of Henry Wirz, the notoriously infamous keeper of the Andersonville prison. The utmost penalty or the law for such deeds has thus been administered. The miserable and pitiable man died protesting his innocence. How a man who had committed the outrages he was proved guilty of could avert his innocence, and declare that if the spirits of the dead could return to the earth, he would come back to persecute those who had persecuted themselves to hang him, is inexplicable to us.

It is yet to be seen what the intention of the Government is, if any, in the implicating Davis, Seddon, Winder, and Cobb with him in the treatment of Federal prisoners.

A Rebel History of the Rebellion.

It has been stated that Robert E. Lee, the late commander of the rebel armies, had made arrangements with a New York publisher to bring out his history of the war. The Richmond Whig throws some light on the matter, taking at the same time, as might be expected, the opportunity offered for flattery. It says:

The article to which we allude is made up of extracts from the New York Journal of Commerce, the Hartford (Conn.) Times, and the La Crosse (Wis.) Democrat, and is headed, "Auctioning the Poor in New England." This heading, we presume, is the Democrat's own.

Now this is a false use of language. As we understand the facts, the poor in New England are not "auctioneered" in any case in any town or State. In some of the cases, the care of certain paupers is provided for by contracting with responsible parties to support them for a specific sum per year. The same practice exists in the towns to some extent, and it may be, in counties also. Bids, or proposals, are called for, and, other circumstances being equal, the lowest proposal is awarded the contract. To speak of this method as "auctioneered the poor" is a palpable misuse of terms, to which no genuine-hearted and considerate man would descend. We presume that there are many among the Democrat's readers who have not the knowledge requisite to expose this falsehood.

Candor would lead the Democrat to set itself right before the public on this point.

THE MEMPHIS APPEAL.—The Memphis Appeal, whose wanderings, after the occupation of that city by the Union forces, will be well remembered, has resumed publication. It takes a very sensible view of the situation. The following is an extract of an article in the first number:

We frankly and truly accept the interpretation of our friends, and are satisfied with the record of war upon the Constitution of the indestructibility of that Union of States and people which makes us, for all time, one mighty and indivisible Republic; we recognize and abide by the logical sequence of the late unhappy civil war, the destruction of slavery, and, finally, the extinction of African slavery. The real men of the land, the true fighting soldiers of both sections, have decided that there shall be a real peace and a genuine Union in the great American family. Between the veterans of both sides, and the uneducated and ignorant of ages, there can be no illustration of the character in hand.

"No man was better in action, but no man was more free from the pedantry of business. People, he has been heard to say, have different minds. 'When I was a young man, the Duke of Wellington made an appointment with me at half past seven in the morning, and some time later, he said, "Why, Palmerston, how will you keep that engagement?" "Oh," I said, "of course, the easiest thing in the world. I shall keep it the last thing before I go to bed."

TRAGEDY IN TEXAS.—The Houston Telegraph gives the details of a tragedy which occurred in the Provost Marshal's Court in the city on the 14th of October. Col. J. E. Kirby, who resided near Houston, was in court for the purpose of taking the master's cotton oath, as it was called, preparatory to selling a number of bales of cotton. He then left the room, and soon reported a pistol was heard, and he came in and found his son, the master of the house, dead. Mr. Kirby had been killed. A pistol was soon discharged, which seemed directly under him, and he fell on his face and expired almost immediately afterward. Mr. John Steel then came forward and surrendered himself to the Provost Marshal, saying he had killed Col. Kirby, and the cause would soon be known.

A dashing young bachelor lately appeared in Central Park with two handsome pieces, whose tails were done up to look like ladies' waistbands, and cooped up in small boxes. The proper charge was that he is a fugitive from justice from Fayette county. Continued till Thursday next for the Commonwealth.

A. P. Burr, one of the editors of the Marion Journal and Messenger, died in that city recently, after illness of ten days. Mr. Burr had been connected with the journals of Georgia for twenty years.

A dashing young bachelor lately appeared in Central Park with two handsome pieces, whose tails were done up to look like ladies' waistbands, and cooped up in small boxes. The proper charge was that he is a fugitive from justice from Fayette county. Continued till Thursday next for the Commonwealth.

The dockets cases were then called.

THE QUESTION SETTLED.

A few days ago the Democrat volunteered to inform us that we ought not to like the President's speech to the negro soldiers so well as we thought we did. Still we were so inappreciative of its facts and logic that we found no reasons for reconsidering our view of the President's remarks. The Democrat gave a brilliant display of its acumen in discerning the motives of people, by simply saying that the President had the knack of "making a speech and saying nothing," which it thought "a considerable achievement." This delusion of the Democrat must have been sadly shattered by some hints which President Johnson has since given of his meaning. The various despatches which have been recently sent southward to Provisional Governors of certain expectant States there, designed to simplify and facilitate reconstruction, do most emphatically show that he has been understood and abided by. We dare say that none but a "reconstructed rebel," just starting to Washington to strike hands once more with his nearest and dearest kin, Northern Democrats and border State Conservatives, and with their aid to seize control of Congress and save the South and the "Union," can at all conceive, much less depict, the heights and depths of that mingled wrath and grief which seized his like, when they heard of Secretary Seward's despatch to the Provisional Governors of Mississippi and South Carolina, requiring them to continue to act as Governors and otherwise ordered. This must have been an extinguisher wholly unexpected. With that spacious and self-righteous reasoning characteristic of pro-slavery politics, they seemed to have deluded themselves into the belief that the getting all they had fought for and lost with the sword, was but the simple going through the formality of holding a Convention and a State election. After that was done, their respective States would be at completely members of the Union before the commencement of the war.

THE PROFITS OF A DETECTIVE.—An extensive hotel which will rent for $4750 per month is being built in Lansing, Mich., by the pastor, Rev. W. A. Townsend, and the volume for 1866 has already been received by Civil & Calvert. It contains the usual classification of diseases. A ready method in Asphyxia; poisons and their antidotes; table of the pulse; list of incompatibles; medicinal weights and measures; medical abbreviations; index of common names of remedial agents; names and addresses; bills and accounts; dairy record of practice and treatment; obstetric calendar; wants and general memoranda; nurses, &c., &c. In great pocket-book shape. Price $1.75. dwd-tf

NOTICE TO MERCHANTS, SCHOOL COMMISSIONERS, ETC.—Wanted, a permanent situation, with moderate compensation, by a single, middle-aged gentleman, partially lame in left side from paralysis, but still active, energetic, and well educated, and of long experience in business—dry goods particularly employed (until recently) for twelve years in a first-class store in New York; has also had experience as newspaper reporter, proof-reader, correspondent, and also as teacher of the English branches; is not particular as to location; would go South, in either of the above capacities, or as confidential clerk, bookkeeper, or manager of a store, or to Washington, as amanuensis or private secretary to a member of Congress; prefers a sedentary occupation where writing, or literary duties and mental labor would be the desiderata, and not great physical activity or endurance.

Address, "Inquirer," care Union Press office, Louisville, Ky., Journey & Burnham, 144 Atlantic street, Brooklyn, N. Y., or G. D. V. Rollo, Esq., No. 3 Third street, Cincinnati, O.

NOTICE TO DIVINE SERVICES AT THE MARKET STREET M. E. CHURCH (below Eighth) to-morrow (Sunday) at 12 a. m. and 7 p. m. Preaching by the pastor, Rev. W. H. Black Sabbath School at 9 a. m. The public are respectfully invited to attend.

A bill has been introduced into the Missouri Legislature, according to the recommendation of Governor Fletcher, authorizing such a change in the gauge of the railways of that State as will enable them to co-operate in conjunction with roads out of the state.

CHOLERA IN ST. LOUIS.—We learn from the St. Louis Democrat of Friday, that John Barnidge, a well-known citizen, about fifty years old, died of cholera Tuesday night. It is hardly thought probable that this was a clear case of Asiatic cholera.

LECTURE.—Rev. Dr. Lynn, of the Brook Street M. E. Church, will deliver a lecture to-morrow night to young men, on "Modern Infidelity." The subject is an interesting one, and will no doubt draw an appreciative audience. Lecture commences at 7 o'clock.

HEAVY ROBBERY.—Capt. J. E. Remington, Assistant Quartermaster at Chattanooga, was robbed of $22,000 last Saturday night. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

FRISON LIFE AT THE SOUTH.—This interesting book of Lieut. Abbott's, about which there has been so many inquiries, has at last made its appearance. It is beautifully gotten up, and for sale at $2.00, by Civil & Calvert.

JOHN S. B. JONES, Superintendent of the Memphis and Ohio railroad, has purchased a considerable supply of rolling stock for that road. The road is in complete running order forty-five miles west of Memphis. The bridge over the Hatchie will soon be completed when Nashville will be within fourteen hours communication with the rest of the country.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting him. Mason was very seriously injured.

ROBBERY.—A man by the name of Mason was knocked down near the corner of Sixth and Market streets, last night, and robbed of $180. About six o'clock last night officer Tom Slater found the thief, but did not succeed in arresting

EVERYBODY TAKE NOTICE!

If you want anything,
If you have anything to sell,
If you want Friends,
If you have Lost anything,
If you have Found anything,

Tell Ten Thousand People at Once by Advertising in the Daily Press.

CANDIDATE.

H. M. MCGARTY respectfully announces himself to the members of the Kentucky State Legislature as a candidate for re-election to the office of State Binder. scd-4

WANTED.

WANTED—YOUNG MAN OF LOUISVILLE TO know that Bryant, Stratton & Delan's Louisville Commercial Business and Telegraph College are a family and a small family. Apply on the premises, corner of Spring and Fremont streets. Mr. Padcock is a reliable and responsible gentleman, and having proven himself a good soldier of the Republic deserves the encouragement which he will doubtless receive from our trans-Ocean friends.

FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—HOME—CHEAP. I applied for $500. Two rooms and kitchen, cellar, cistern and all conveniences. A small family. Apply on the premises, corner of Spring and Fremont streets. Mr. Padcock is a reliable and responsible gentleman, and having proven himself a good soldier of the Republic deserves the encouragement which he will doubtless receive from our trans-

THE DAILY PRESS

BY TELEGRAPH.

REGULAR MIDNIGHT REPORT.

THE EXECUTION OF WIRZ.

A WORD TO ADVERTISERS.

Our circulation is rapidly increasing, which renders the Press one of the best advertising mediums in the State. We hope our friends will send in their advertisements.

OUR AGENTS.

Hale & Bro., L. N. A. & C. R. E. Hale & Young, Atty. at Law, Rockport Ind.

S. Bain, Troy, Franklin, Hopkinsville, Ky.

J. G. Venable, Frankfort, Ky.

A. S. Bean, Bowling Green, Ky.

W. H. Pendleton, New York, Beckman street.

D. J. J. Fox, Perryville, Md.

Young men write to day. scd-4

FOR SALE.—I HAVE FOR SALE 10 ACRES of land in Bell county, near Pitts' Port, on Salt river, being part of the farm called Meadow Dale, formerly owned by Mr. W. H. Pendleton. The land is cleared, and the balance is in wood, i will sell the place cheap at any terms. One-half cash, half credit. scd-4

EDWARD NEEDHAM.

FIRE ENGINES for Sale.

BY BRENTON.—OF THE GENERAL UNION, I will sell four hand fire engines and two hose carriages, belonging to the city. For terms, etc., call at my shop. scd-4

PHILIP TOMPKINS.

FOR SALE—FARM.—I HAVE FOR SALE 10 ACRES of land in Bell county, near Pitts' Port, on Salt river, being part of the farm called Meadow Dale, formerly owned by Mr. W. H. Pendleton. The land is cleared, and the balance is in wood, i will sell the place cheap at any terms. One-half cash, half credit. scd-4

EDWARD NEEDHAM.

FOR SALE—TWO BRICK HOUSES.

TWO STORIES, each containing seven rooms, and two front and two back rooms. Apply at FRANK CAR TEK, or D. S. BENEDICT & SONS. scd-4

LOST.

LOST—CHILD.—ABOUT TEN DAYS AGO A LIKELY little boy, named Peter, usually dressed in a blue jacket and cap, was last seen in the vicinity of Green streets, while passing through the Hillman's. A liberal reward will be paid for his delivery to J. W. Shockey, No. 6 street, between Market and Jefferson, or to Mr. Johnson, scd-4

MRS. SOPHIA LYLE.

FOUND.

FOUND—A BRASS DOOR KEY. THE OWNER CAN get it at this office by paying for the advertisement. scd-4

BOARDING.

BOARDING—TWO FINELY UNFURNISHED ROOMS can be had with board in a quiet and agreeable manner, and for $25 per month. Apply at No. 100, West Second Street. scd-4

JOHN COOPER.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

REMOVAL.

I HAVE REMOVED MY MUSIC STORE FROM Fourth to No. 92 and 94 south side of JEFFERSON STREET, BETWEEN THIRD AND FOURTH, third door below Third Street, where I hope to see all my old friends and patrons, and make many more new ones.

LOUIS TRIPP,

(Late Tripp & Craig.)

LOUISVILLE, October 21, 1865. scd-4

OPTICIAN.

LOUISVILLE OPTICAL INSTITUTE MAIN STREET, UNDER THE NATIONAL HOTEL E. SINCERE, Optician.

I HAVE GOT UP THE IMPROVED SPHERICAL SPECTACLES. The eyes by myself, they cannot fail to improve your vision.

The most perfect shade of green.

View a Panorama.

Microscopes, cameras, spectacles, field glasses, hydrometers, barometers, M. C. O. scopes, drawing instruments, mirrors, surveyors' and pocket compasses.

Artificial Eyes Inserted without Causing Pain.

Small glasses set in old frames.

Specimens will be sent to order if it states whether the eyes are combed or not, and what length of prosthesis have been used.

Full selection of all kinds of Optical Instruments, and Microscopes, cameras, spectacles, thermometers, barometers, and Surveying Instruments. Instruments for Medical Faculty, Race, Field, Marine and Optical.

Artificial Human Eyes inserted without pain.

New glasses fitted in old frames. scd-4

Aug-4

Aug-

